Aberhart Assumes Alberta Premier- ship on Sept. 3rd

NEW LEGISLATIVE SESSION TO BE HELD SEPTEMBER THIRD

Calgary, August 28.—The Alberta Social Credit League's 57-year-old leader, William Aberhart, who says he "feels like a young horse with the bit in his teeth," literally pawed the ground today to get ahead with his economic reforms.

Confident after his party's smashing victory in the provincial election Thursday on a platform with a major plank of a monthly "basic dividend" to all bona fide citizens, the Calgary high school principal asked Albertans to be patient and told them the British Empire's first Social Credit government will start a session of the legislature September 3rd.

Mr. Aberhart notified His Honor Lieutenant-Governor W. L. Walsh Monday morning that he was prepared to take over the reins of government from former Premier R. G. Reid on September 3.

Mr. Aberhart in his regular Sunday address at the Prophetic Bible Institute announced a caucus of Social Credit members elected and defeated candidates will be held in Calgary next Wednesday to decide party leadership and other matters. He added he was prepared to assume the leadership if chosen.

Efforts will be made to bring Major C. H. Douglas, British initiator and apostle of Social Credit theories, to Alberta as soon as possible to introduce the reforms, Mr. Aberhart promised.

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

The current issue of The New Outlook announced that Monday, Sept. 2nd, will be Labor Day, and on the preceding Sunday, according to happy custom, the churches of this continent will be giving the matter a prominent place in the services of the day. This suggestion will be followed at the services on the Irma pastoral charge, next Sunday, Sept. 1st—Albert 11 a.m., Alma Mater 3 p.m. Irma 8 p.m., and a very hearty invitation is extended to "all that labor" to join in the fellowship of worship. There can be no doubt that a service of this nature is especially needed in these times, and it would be difficult to name an occasion "likely to have a stronger appeal to the Founder of the Church than that on which special emphasis is laid upon the Christian attitude to the needs and just claims of the working man."

The following poem by Edwin Markham contains a challenge which all sincere Christian people must heed: "Behold O world, the Telling man, bearing earth's burden and her ban, because of his all giving grace, Kaisers and kings have hell their place—

Because he gave ungrudging toil, The herds have had the world to spoil; Because he gave them all his dower, Great ladies glittered out their hour: He clothed these paupers, gave them food,

Put into their mouths their daily bread, And his reward? A crust to taste, An unknown grave upon the waste, Outcast and cursed, befriended and flayed,

With earth's brute burdens on him heid, He only reached out his humble hands Reached out his mercies on all lands: How silent down the world he trod—How patient he has been with God!"

Premier Reid Leaves Aberhart to Provide for Saving Certificates

STOP PAYMENT ON SAVINGS CERTIFICATES

Government Puts It Up To Aberhart Party

Following "abnormal demands" by the public for cashing of provincial government savings certificates, Premier R. G. Reid on Tuesday announced suspension of payment of certificates until the situation is met by the incoming Aberhart government.

Premier Reid, prior to making his announcement advised Mr. Aberhart at Calgary, as to his proposed action. Premier Reid's statement regarding suspension of payment is as follows:

"Requests for payment of savings certificates have reached such proportions that they can only be met by measures involving questions of policy that must be determined by the new government.

"The government has already met abnormal demands for payment of these certificates, and has on hand additional securities which could ordinarily be disposed of, to take care of the present demands, but which are not now readily marketable.

"The government is, therefore, notifying the public that the presentation of demands for payment should be withheld until the new government has had time to make arrangements necessary to deal with the situation.

"At the same time, the government wishes to assure the holders of these certificates and the holders of debentures that the position of the province is sound, and that there should be no undue apprehension as to the worth of Alberta securities. Interest payments due on debentures and certificates will be met as usual."

While no statistics were announced on number or amounts of withdrawals from savings certificates funds, it is believed that demands for payments have been received by the department in large numbers through the mails.

Victorious Creditors Declare Equal Deal Is Aim For All Citizens

The Alberta Social Credit League, of which William Aberhart, B.A., was the founder, today pledges an "equal deal for all citizens."

Its candidates were pledged to a platform promising to:

1—Banish poverty from Alberta.

2—Pay a basic dividend—tentatively set at $25 a month—to every citizen.

3—Establish a "just price" for both producer and consumer.

4—No new money would be used.

5—Non-negotiable certificates would be used for the purchase of goods and services.

6—The basic dividend would be collected by a levy.

LOWER GRAIN STORAGE RATES

Something new in the history of the grain business in Western Canada developed this week when the Alberta Pool Elevators announced its intention of cutting the storage rates for grain carried in its elevators by approximately one-third, effective from August 31, 1935, to August 31, 1936.

Pool Elevators will charge 145c a bushel a day for grain in store instead of 190c a bushel a day—the rate which has prevailed for many years. The new rate will apply for all grain in store at the time of the change as well as in its terminals at the Pacific coast.

Alberta Pool Elevators is a co-operative organization owned and operated by Alberta farmers. In that position it considers it a privilege to be instrumental in reducing costs in some measure to the grain growers in a year when crops have suffered severely from drought, hail and frost.

Heard at the poker party: "My wife has been nursing a growth all week." "Been laid up, have you?"

Heard at a ladies' social in a neighboring town during the gossip hour: "Why did they separate?" "Nobody knows." "Oh, how terrible."

SUFFER INJURIES IN CAR ACCIDENT

(From the Viking News)

A touring car driven by Sandy McDonald and containing two other passengers, Lauri Rasmussen and Jack Kelly, left the highway about four miles south of town last Friday night and rolled over a couple of times before coming to a stop.

As a result of the accident, Lauri Rasmussen was rushed to the Viking hospital and found suffering from concussion, injuries to his back, several ribs fractured and also sustaining injuries and bruises. Jack Kelly suffered severe shock and a fractured rib and minor bruises. Sandy escaped practically unharmed.

Sandy hurried to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Kennedy nearby who rendered assistance in bringing the injured to the hospital. For a time it was feared that Mr. Rasmussen's injuries would prove fatal, but reports today indicate that he has a good chance of recovery unless complications set in. Jack Kelly is improving daily.

The party was returning from a trip to Killam. When reaching a point about four miles south of town the road which had been recently graded had been slippery by a passing shower of rain. The car swerved into the ditch and turned over. The top was demolished and on the whole the car was rendered in bad shape.

Altar Societies Formed At Fabyan and Irma

A very successful meeting was held after the High Mass at Fabyan, Sunday August 18. The Altar Society was formed, Mrs. J. Barret being elected President. Mr. Williamson was elected Secretary-Treasurer and was also named to take charge of news and subscriptions for "The Thersian". It was decided that the annual dues be 50c and that 10c be collected at each meeting.

The first meeting will be held at the home of the president. All meetings unless otherwise announced will be held on the first Thursday of each month in the various homes and will follow the alphabetical order.

The Altar Society at Irma was also formed and Mrs. Savard was named President. Miss A. Donaghe was elected Secretary-Treasurer. Two women were appointed to look after the affairs of "The Thersian", Mrs. Cummings for the northern part of the parish and Mrs. F. Weise for the southern. This is as far as the organization has progressed at Irma.

MAJ. DOUGLAS TO RETURN TO ALBERTA

London, August 28.—Major C. H. Douglas is ready to proceed to Alberta to advise the new government, holding that his contract with the ousted administration holds good under the new Social Credit regime of William Aberhart. Returning to London today after a brief vacation, Major Douglas told the Canadian Press: "I am a servant of the Alberta government. My two years' engagement was a government, not a party, engagement. It still stands."

Harry Strauss Injured In Tractor Accident

A painful accident occurred on Fred Smith's farm, Fabyan, when Harry Strauss was run over by the tractor. Mr. Strauss was under the tractor making some minor repairs when the machine was set in motion, by some cause not yet determined, and one of the wheels with the heavy logs passed over the lower part of Mr. Strauss' body. He was rushed to the Walmsworth Hospital by his brother-in-law, Mr. Linus Meyer, where he was given medical attention by Dr. Midlemass. His condition being very serious it was decided to take him to the University Hospital, Edmonton, for special care and attention.

We are pleased to say that as we go to press Mr. Strauss has made wonderful progress and every hope is held out for his ultimate restoration to perfect health.

The Object Of An Election

By the time this article appears in print the very interesting Provincial election campaign which has been in progress in Alberta will be concluded and the electors of that province will have rendered their judgment as between the several parties and their respective policies. This Alberta campaign has been unusually interesting, not only on account of the number and variety of political groups which have placed candidates in the field, but because a plan or system of finance and economics entirely new to Canada, namely Social Credit, has been urged for adoption and a trial. As a result the attention of all Canada, and even in other countries, was focused on Alberta.

By this time, too, Canadians will be in the throes of a Dominion general election which also presents a situation that is new in the political history of Canada. The present contest will not be confined to the two traditional parties, Liberal and Conservative, because since the election of five years ago another two political parties have come into being and are contending for the favor of the voters in support of policies and programmes which they believe are necessary to solve the problems which have arisen in this rapidly changing world.

So, in scores of constituencies, instead of making a clear-cut decision as between two aspiring candidates for Parliamentary honors, and between two distinct lines of policy as represented by Conservatism and Liberalism, the voters will have to make up their minds as between three, four, and possibly even a larger number of candidates presenting differing programmes.

The situation is one that undoubtedly throws a greater responsibility upon the individual voter for at least one reason, if not for others. The object of Parliamentary elections under the British system of democratic responsible government is two-fold, and it is vitally important that both be kept in mind, and due weight and consideration given to them by the voter as he or she proceeds to mark a ballot.

In the first place, the voter is making choice of a personal representative in the House of Commons, the person whom he or she considers best qualified to present his or her views, best qualified to represent that particular constituency, best qualified to represent the views and interests of the Province of which such constituency forms a part, and best qualified to deal with those larger questions of national, even world, policy in the statesmanlike handling of which the welfare of all Provinces, constituencies and individuals is involved.

But the selection of such individual representative is not all that is decided by a voter when marking a ballot. There is another, possibly an even greater issue at stake. The basic object of an election is to set up the governing body of the nation; in other words, to create a Government to the executive members of which is entrusted the heavy responsibility of formulating policies and administering the laws and the national business of the Dominion. It is not merely a debating or consulting body that is being chosen, but the Government of the country.

The biggest business enterprise in Canada is Canada itself. If that business is mismanaged, if it is conducted along wrong lines of policy, then each and every other business in Canada, and every individual in Canada, stands to suffer loss. Stated another way, individual voters are the shareholders in the largest and most important of all business enterprises—Canada itself. In a general election they are meeting as shareholders to choose a board of directors—the House of Commons. From the 245 members thus chosen, an executive or board of management is selected, namely, the cabinet of ministers chosen by the president of the whole corporation, the Prime Minister, and responsible to him and to the House of Commons.

If in the exercise of their individual rights the voters choose various groups of members having opposing views as to how the business of the country should be conducted, and the nature of the policies that should be followed, and as a result no one group commands a majority over all other groups, and consequently no group is in a position to undertake the responsibility of attempting to govern the country, then government becomes practically impossible, a deadlock ensues, the business of the country is neglected or bedeviled because no definite course of action can be decided upon and a straight course steered. The proper conduct of government and national business is impossible and the whole country and every interest suffers.

Consequently, it is necessary for the individual voter in exercising the best judgment possible in making selection of a personal representative in the House of Commons to give consideration, not alone to the qualifications of such possible representative, but also to the personnel, leadership and policies of the group to which he belongs and supports. He must decide, too, whether such group has within itself the necessary numbers, power and ability to establish a strong Government and give to Canada that sound and efficient administration which the welfare of all citizens demands shall be given.

Admittedly, Canada is a hard country to govern. With a comparatively small population, scattered thinly across half a continent, constituted of people of many racial origins, different languages, and various beliefs, several Provinces mainly rural in occupation, but the two central and by far the most populous Provinces highly industrialized, the problem of popular democratic government is no easy one to solve. Yet it must be solved if all are not to suffer.

Such is the situation and some of the more vital considerations which the voters of Canada must seriously weigh during the next few weeks, and finally must register their judgment upon at the ballot boxes.

Idea Came From India

The vogue of mixing wine or water, lemon juice, sugar, spice and water was brought to England from India and it seems to be named from the Hindoo word "punch" meaning five, referring to the usual number of ingredients.

Children grow more rapidly during April, May and June than any other period of the year, according to results of a survey conducted in Europe.

A Tragic Souvenir

A large gold medal which was specially struck by the City of Paris for presentation to King Alexander in commemoration of the visit which he was to have paid to the French capital, is to be given as a tragic souvenir to his widow, Queen Marie of Yugoslavia.

Approximately 11,000,000 words are spoken annually by the average man. Speaking of words, you will have to add more zeros.

A Fast Growing Business

Shark Catching Is Money Maker According To Captain

Up from the Philippines to New York came Capt. Jean M. Ellerich with a message for housewives in search of a new table delicacy and for ambitious young men seeking a job with a future.

"Shark meat," said the captain, "is a very popular dish. Why they're serving fillet de sole from sharks to the most discriminating diners, although sometimes under another name."

By virtue of the increasing popularity, the business itself has grown by leaps and bounds, he said, and even during the depression it held its own along with the red-ink manufacturers and the pee wee golf courses.

Like trout, there apparently is no end to the sharks. Although a million are taken every year, there are just as many to-day; in fact 250 varieties.

Capt. Ellerich is here to learn the different varieties from aquarium officials and survey market possibilities.

In the Philippines he first learned how thoughtless were the natives in throwing away all of the shark, except the fins, which they used for soup.

To-day the skins are used for leather, while the meat in addition to being a palatable food for human consumption, may be used for stock feed and fertilizer.

Several additional products are obtained from the glands, and in distant parts of the world the teeth are used for money. In the far interior of Asia, said Capt. Ellerich, a well polished shark tooth will win a bride where $10,000 would fail.

Willing To Take Risk

Man Signs Up For Test In Freezing Experiment

Stephen Simkhovitch, 34, a strapping fellow, writer and scenarist, signed a contract at Hollywood, Cal., in which he agreed to be frozen solid and possibly revived in the interests of medical science.

Dr. Ralph S. Willard, young Russian-born chemist, who said he has been freezing and reviving guinea pigs, rabbits and monkeys over a six-year period and claims that tuberculosis at least, can be overcome through this treatment, agreed to conduct the human experiment.

Simkhovitch said he was prompted by a desire to "do something for humanity for a change," and to determine "if there is life after death."

He said he was a son of V. C. Simkhovitch, professor of economic history at Columbia University, and Mrs. Mary K. Simkhovitch, head of Greenwich House in New York, widely known student of sociology.

Work Of Toronto Artist

Tiny Miniature Of Premier Hepburn Painted On Bloodstone

Said to be one of the world's smallest miniatures, a portrait in oils of Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn, painted on a bloodstone, was to be exhibited at the Canadian National Exhibition by Joseph Hilpert, Hungarian-born Canadian citizen, and well-known Toronto artist.

The tiny portrait took three and a half months to execute and was painted with single hairs in place of a brush. The greatest dimension of the pictures is one quarter of an inch and the head itself, with its wealth of details, measures only one-eighth of an inch.

The naked eye alone was used in this remarkable piece of work.

A Matter Of Choice

Should we say Abyssinia or Ethiopia? The American National Geographical Society says it should be the latter because it has the official sanction of the Ethiopian government and Ethiopians object to the word Abyssinia because it is derived from an Arab word meaning "a mixed race." Friends of Italy will therefore, say, Abyssinia, and friends of the African nation, Ethiopia—Hamilton Spectator.

Unusual Bombardment

Turin, Italy, was besieged by a French army in 1640, and was saved by one of the most unusual bombardments in history. In trying to relieve their starving allies, Spanish troops hollowed out cannon balls, filled them with flour, and fired them into the town.

Smallest Adult In World

Girl Nineteen Is Only Twenty-One Inches Tall

Margaret Ann Robinson gave a birthday party the other day. At nineteen she stands only twenty-one inches, or one foot, nine, in her slippers, and weighs only eighteen pounds. At the office of George Hamid Enterprises, 1560 Broadway, New York, where pictures were taken, it was declared that she was the smallest adult in the world.

Her mother makes her clothes. She quit growing when five months old, and she never has weighed more than twenty-two pounds.

She was born in Denver, has had baby parts in movies, plays solitaire, has been in the show business two years, plays a violin eleven and one-half inches over all, likes to keep house, dances, and walked a mile yesterday. She likes almost all food except milk and eggs, and recently signed a contract for exhibition at Shrine circuses.

Her father boasted that she is nine and one-half inches shorter than the renowned Tom Thumb, whose smallness helped to make Barnum bigger. As a circus magnet, and that to step into the carriage which Queen Victoria gave Tom Thumb she had to climb on a ten-inch box. This carriage is now a museum piece at the University of New Hampshire.

Must Learn Over Again

Operation On Throat Forces Famous Singer To Become Student

Amelia Galli-Curci, internationally famous prima donna, must learn to sing all over again.

For 15 years—through the zenith of her brilliant opera career—the diva gave the world sweet music from a throat half blocked by goitre. By sheer will power she forced her beautiful notes on a devious detour through her windpipe.

Now, the tumor—"potato," she called it—is gone. Her throat has been cleared of its old problem, and filled with a new.

The successful operation that removed the 6½ ounce obstruction doubled the amount of air her trachea can hold. She must now accustom herself to control the increased volume so she can produce the same clear tones.

The "re-learning" lessons begin in Henrotin hospital, where the singer was resting comfortably.

Simple scales and simple scales will adjust the disturbed throat muscles before more difficult exercises begin. That will be after all danger of lesions has been passed.

Use Camouflage Methods

Speeding Motorists In London Trapped By Disguised Police

Disguised police in London have been using camouflage methods to trap speeding motorists. To-day one cannot tell, driving along London's streets, whether the grocery truck moving along in front is really a grocery truck. It looks like a grocery truck and even has lettering on its sides to prove it, but that's no sign the driver isn't one of Scotland Yard's finest, out enjoying the summer weather and enforcing London's new 30-mile speed limit.

The "grocery" as they are called (because they sound like a gong when they're freed an unwary motorist), may be found in almost anything, from a 1918 model truck to the latest thing in sports models. They're disguised, too, with dusters over their uniforms. Considering such tactics as an affront to Britain's sense of fair play, motorists are attacking signs on the back of their cars reading, "This is not a police car."

No organization of a similar nature brings together more countries than the World's Poultry Science Association does at the World Poultry Congresses which are the triennial meetings of the association. ### Free Thinking

Dr. Inge, late Dean of St. Paul's, did well to remind his hearers in his university sermon at St. Mary's Oxford, that originality means thinking for oneself and not merely thinking differently from other people. Free thinking is fine so long as there is sufficient emphasis on the latter word and not too much on the former.

Dairy Industry In U.S.

The dairy industry has become the most important branch of agriculture in the United States, notwithstanding the fact that production is almost entirely for domestic consumption, the exports of dairy products being comparatively insignificant. Dairying was the last important branch of agriculture in the United States to suffer from the depression.

Not Operating Railroad

No Train Running On Line Into Vatican City

Pope Pius now has a railroad, a station, a tunnel, a bridge, a siding, switches, signals and a dispatcher's room, but no train and no apparent prospect of operating the line for many a month or year.

Built at a total cost of $2,385,000 and paid for by the Italian Government under the provisions of the Lateran treaty of 1929, the railroad was completed a year ago. Since then the 2,615-foot road has remained idle.

There is a gorgeous station that would do honor to a modern city of 50,000 souls, but it is empty. There are tracks that have not felt the hum of wheels since a locomotive made a trial trip into Vatican city last year. The tunnel, dug into Vatican hill and built to facilitate switching without taking up too much valuable space, has its gaping mouth wide open, but never swallows any thing.

The railroad, in proportion to its length, is the most costly in the world. Including the station, tunnel and bridge, the cost was $913 a foot. A railroad linking New York to San Francisco at the same price would run to about $16,000,000, not including the rolling stock.

Yet the Pope is not giving any indication of ever using it. He has not yet placed the order for the construction of the papal train. Many plans and designs for such a train, including a special chapel coach, have been drawn, but nothing has been done toward putting them into execution.

The Italian Government naturally would be glad to lend the Pope a train for special trips if he wished. The King undoubtedly would offer the royal train.

Has Unusual Powers

Doors Open For Girl Of Their Own Accord

"I'll open the door for you, Marie," said the mistress of a villa at Nusse, Prague, to her servant, who was carrying a heavily laden tray.

But just as the servant got to the door it opened of its own accord.

The girl's employer thought she must be dreaming. Other members of the family, however, noticed that doors always opened for Marie when she approached them.

The cook confessed that she always sent Marie into the cellar for potatoes, because they rolled toward her of their own accord.

That girl herself has no feeling of any unusual powers. A psychological research society is now investigating the phenomena.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, who is care beyond the coming out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. They are met at the railway station by Columbine Nelson, who in turn introduces Mark and Matthew Adams, two neighbors of Aunt Columbine, and the party set out for Pine Ridge, which village causes dismay to both Nancy and Jack because of its dilapidated appearance and general look of poverty. Nancy and Jack are shown to the rooms they are to occupy, and both the young people consider the furniture and decorations hateful and, contrasting the present quarters with their luxurious home in Boston, wonder if they can endure the change for any length of time. Aunt Columbine tells why she wrote the letter to them, and relates some of her early experiences at Pine Ridge of hostile Indians and forest fires. Her father's hunt for gold, and of her mother's splendid spirit, but frail body, which could not endure the strain of pioneer life.

Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow. A truck comes along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's house. Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken his leg, and that Jack Nelson has been killed. Jack went out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Now Go On With The Story

The early winter darkness had fallen when they returned. Nancy had had "a wonderful day." She had lunched at a delightful tea room, done her own Christmas errands, Aurora's, Cousin Columbine's, and even Matthew Adams! For when she met her escort at the appointed time, the young man told her that he had delayed his own holiday shopping in order to profit by her advice. Would Dot Meredith, the cousin who was in college at Denver and was to spend her vacation at the ranch, approve of silk stockings as a gift? And what size must he get? What color? Darned if he knew! And would Nancy look at a luncheon set he wanted for his mother, and see if it were really any good?

So Nancy stored her parcels in the old car, and fared forth again, this time with Matthew. But it was all fun, and after weeks of comparative solitude in Pine Ridge, the Christmas crowds seemed thrilling. Their errands accomplished, Matt took her to a place where they had hot chocolate and delicious sandwiches; and on the way home he drove with exceeding slowness, even after the dangerous pass was left behind.

The stars were out when they bumped the railroad track and started off the straggling familiar street. Dusk hid its shabbiness, and Nancy turned as she always did, to that matchless view of the white-crested Peak.

"Well, we're home," she said, and added, laughing: "That sounds exactly like Aurora, doesn't it? I've had a great time, Matt, and I do appreciate your letting me tag along. If your cousin's stockings don't turn out the right size, the saleswoman said they could be changed. I know your mother will love the linen—any one would; and—Will you look at that!" They were approaching the Nelson "mansion" now. "There's a light in the parlor! Is the president, or governor or some one calling on Cousin Columbine? Why? (as they turned in the gate), "there are lights everywhere! What can be happening."

She looked up, at Matthew this time. There was, Nancy saw, an inscrutable smile curving his nice mouth, but all he said was: "Let's go in and see."

CHAPTER XIV.

Nancy was never to forget the moments that followed. As Matthew drew up before the house he blew three sharp blasts on the automobile horn, and said: "Don't bother with all those bundles, Nancy. I'll lug 'em in in just a minute." Indeed, Nancy was so puzzled by the amazing illumination that she failed to see that they were stopping at the seldom-used front door; and, still dazed, but with Matt's hand on her elbow, she was firmly propelled into what Jack called "the sacred parlor."

For a moment she just stood still, thinking the room was full of people until she realized that it wasn't a crowd at all, only the parlor, beautifully garlanded with Christmas greens, looked different. A second glance disclosed the company: Cousin Columbine in her scarlet middie and lace boots; a little woman with soft brown hair, and eyes shining with excitement, who must be "Aunt Aurora." By her side stood the tall, lean, sunburned man who was her husband, looking, it seemed to Nancy, very little older than his sons. Then came Juanita Tubbs—Juanita in a sleeveless gown of such dazzling, variegated colors that she almost blinked when she looked straight at it and was thankful that Mary Taylor was wearing white. Mark ("all dressed up in his Sunday best," thought Nancy) towered between Mary and a slender girl in blue ("The cousin from Denver?"); while Jack, spick and span in his blue serge suit, and another boy ("The last of the Apostles, of course!") stood just behind them; and as a climax came Aurora attired in a gown of emerald tulle with six bouffants on the skirt and the inevitable apron tied snugly around her ample waistline.

No wonder Nancy stared! She stared so long that everybody shouted with laughter; and it was Cousin Columbine who explained: "It's only your debut, child. Don't look so dazed!"

"Your debut, staged in a different setting," smiled Eve Adam, and coming forward kissed Nancy on the cheek. "Welcome to Pine Ridge society, my dear! I really think we gave you a surprise."

"And if she don't run straight upstairs and put on that party dress I took out of her closet, of course!" Aurora, "my company dinner'll be in. Nancy, Matthew Adams, you'll find your good clothes in Miss Columbine's bedroom, and don't be slow as cold molasses, either."

"Did—did you know this all the time?" cried Nancy, wheeling on Matthew.

"I—I sort of suspected it," he confessed. "I mean—"

"Oh, come on, Matt," broke in his brother Mark impatiently. "Time flies; and you've got to beautify yourself in honor of our debutante!"

"... And will you believe it?" Nancy wrote home next day, "when I came down, there stood Matthew Adams looking absolutely stunning in a well-cut tux! I almost passed out at sight of him!"

Probably Matthew felt somewhat the same at the same moment; for Nancy herself, in orchid chiffon, and silver-shawl, was (according to Mark Adams) "too easy to look at for any fellow's peace of mind."

"You'll have to seat her next to Matthew, Miss Columbine," he said ruefully. "She makes the rest of us look like hick cowboys. I'd have swiped that Tux myself, Matt, if it had been two sizes bigger. It's the only Tuxedo in Pine Ridge, Nancy—a relic of canipus days which transforms my coward brother into a glorious Apollo, as you can see for yourself. And—"

"Shut up!" commanded Matthew, blushing, while his mother slipped a protecting arm through his, and Aurora announced shrilly:

"Come on! Get seated while I dish up the potato. Sakes alive, Nancy, you look like those pictures in the love magazines. And you too, Matthew Adams. That white shirt's awful becoming. Everything's ready and all those pesky candles lighted. Come on in!"

"I never saw a prettier table," wrote Nancy to her mother. "Even that awful green-brown china was conspicuous, because it blent with the green-bronze leaves of the kinkinnick with Mrs. Adam had decorated everything. It's the most graceful vine, with red berries like the partridge berries we have at home. There was a big brass bowl of it in the centre of the table, and long sprays laid at intervals on the white cloth—a cloth bought in Denver in 1901, please understand, and used only on state occasions!"

"The terrible lamp was banished, and four tall brass candlesticks held red candles while a big red candle stood at every place. Even Cousin Columbine's scarlet middie seemed made for the occasion. She looked very distinguished at the head of the table; and they put me at the foot with 'Father Adam' on one side, and Mark (despite protests regarding his apparel) on the other."

"And did we eat? As Jack remarked, Aurora had done her damndest, and the old-fashioned Christmas dinner was superb! Once it struck me as funny that Juanita was among the guests while her mother waited on us; but Cousin Columbine says that Aurora would never have recovered if her daughter had been left out. Mr. Adam made place cards; and the minute I saw his beautiful lettering I knew who was going to paint the sign for my Aladdin Library! But 'to get back to my debut..."

The account of this party given to the longest letter that Nancy Nelson had ever written, which ended with a request to forward it to Aunt Judy. "I for I can never write all this again. I wonder what those wild spear girls will think of my debut, Mother! Not much like what we planned, was it? But believe me, it was a grand party just the same."

It is probable that all those present agreed with the girl. When at last they arose from the table and sought the gaily-festooned parlor, each one added his bit to the entertainment. There were charades; old-time songs with melodeon accompaniment (a melodeon brought from Chicago in 1881, Miss Columbine assured them proudly); as well as strictly modern "croonings" rendered by Mark; while Matthew left Nancy breathless for the second time that evening when, with the simple aid of Juanita's tam o' shanter and a plaid scarf, he was transformed into a very creditable Harry Lauder, and forgetting his shyness, sang "I Love a Lassie" in a delightful baritone.

Not until then did Aurora remove her apron.

"I'm going to recite 'Curfew Shall Not Ring To-night,'" she told the company. "I said that place at a church so-called when Tubbs was courting me, and there wasn't a dry eye in the place when I got through."

This number brought such a deafening round of applause that the good woman beamed with pleasure. "It's your turn now, Miss Columbine," she said. "You tell us a story about old times to calm us down."

Cousin Columbine smiled as Matt drew her chair in the centre of the group.

"I'm going to tell you about my first Christmas tree," she began. "I couldn't have been more than three or four years old, and Mother and I were alone as we so often were in those days when Father was off adventuring. We were expecting him home, of course; but on Christmas Eve when he did not come, Mother went out and cut a tiny Christmas tree herself, and set it up in the corner of our one room."

"I realize now that for months, possibly longer, she had been saving every bright scrap of ribbon, or calico, or paper that came her way—saving them to make a merry Christmas for her baby; and after I was sound asleep she must have spent those lonely hours trying to make the little fir tree gay and pretty, while she listened tensely for Father's returning step and the longed-for whistle (it was, she told me, like the song of the hermit thrushes in New Hampshire), with which he always heralded his arrival.

"Well, no whistle came that night, and at last, bitterly disappointed, fearful for his safety as she always was at any untoward delay, my mother crept into the big bed and dropped asleep. No doubt her pillow was wet with tears; but things looked brighter in the morning. It was a beautiful day. A flurry of snow had fallen in the night. Every bush and tree was white and frosted, which made her think of Christmas in old New England; and I, of course, was twittering with excitement. She could scarcely persuade me to eat breakfast. This was so eager to examine every ornament and open the two parcels tied to the topmost branch of my small tree."

"At last she pushed aside our soiled dishes. This morning they could wait, for after all, Christmas comes but once a year. She drew a chair close to the little tree; took me on her lap and put into my hands one of the gifts she had prepared so lovingly. You see, she had contrived twin dolls out of homemade clothes—pins—painted their faces very cleverly, and dressed them in scarlet flannel from an old petticoat, wrapping them separately so that I would have more to open."

For a moment Miss Columbine sat silent, as if thinking; then she went on: "I do not, of course, remember every detail of this story; but it was told so often that the scene rises before me very clearly. I was so enthralled with my doll that I forgot to be curious about the other 'package'; and as I sat there on my mother's knee, caressing this new baby, something, possibly the sense of being watched, drew her eyes away from me for a moment, and at what she saw her poor heart almost stopped beating. For there was a face at the window, peering in at us—the face of an Indian!"

"My soul!" breathed Aurora in an awed whisper; and as if not hearing her, Miss Columbine continued:

"Perhaps you young folks can't realize what that meant to a pioneer woman alone in her cabin save for a little child. Instinctively her glance rose to the rifle lying ready for use on a shelf behind the stove. Then fell to the fir tree; that emblem of 'Peace on earth, goodwill to men'; and just then the door latch rattled ominously, she came to a decision.

Altar Brought From France

Hidden In Woods When English Captured French Fort

In the Church of the Sacred Heart at Red Islands, a few miles from Sydney, Nova Scotia, is a storied altar that was brought from France in 1691. It was placed in the French fort at St. Peter's, or Port Toulouse as it was then called. When the English captured the fort the altar was carried off by the French to the woods, where it was hidden.

Later it was found by the Indians, who jealously guarded it until a priest stationed at Red Island finally persuaded them to allow him to remove it to the Roman Catholic church.

The Explanation

Mayor: "I never saw the park littered with paper as it is this morning. How do you account for it?"

Superintendent: "The park commissioner had leaflets distributed yesterday asking people not to throw paper about."

Bell Still Cracked

When Big Ben was installed in London 75 years ago, the huge bell cracked. Another bell was cast, but this also cracked on installation. It has remained cracked ever since.

Quality In Binder Twine

Inspection In Recent Years Has Shown Steady Improvement

The binder twine being used to harvest Canada's grain crop comes from a number of sources. Canadian made twine supplies a large part of the domestic demand and considerable quantities made in the Dominion are exported to other countries, but binder twine from several other countries has come to share the Canadian market. The greater part of the importations into Canada are from Great Britain, Ireland and Holland and in recent years small quantities have also been received from Belgium and Germany.

The law requires that each ball of binder twine sold in Canada shall bear a label stating the number of feet of twine per pound in the ball, whether 500, 550, 600 or 650 feet. This is a case where quantity is the estimate of quality. Inspectors of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Seed Branch, inspect Canadian made twine at the places of manufacture and imported twine at storage warehouses, and by a system of measurement and calculation determine the actual number of feet per pound as compared with the length guaranteed.

Results of binder twine inspection recent years have shown a steady improvement in both Canadian and imported twine used in Canada. More than three hundred samples were taken of the twine distributed in Canada in 1934, the tests of which showed that 47 per cent. had actually more twine to the pound than was guaranteed and 14 per cent. had exactly the length guaranteed.

The remainder of the samples had some shortage which was inconsiderable in most cases and only 2.5 per cent. had a shortage of over 5 per cent. which is the limit of shortage allowed by law.

Tensile strength in binder twine is not subject to legal control. Inspectors, however, give some attention to this factor but it is now seldom that a sample is found in which the tensile strength is too weak for ordinary grain binding.

Find Ancient Fossil

May Have Roamed Seas Thirty Million Years Ago

A large fossil found in lower cretaceous formations on the west coast of Vancouver Island may be part of an Ichthyosaurus that roamed the seas some 30,000,000 years ago, in the opinion of Professor M. F. Bancroft, head of the geological survey party which salvaged the fossil. The fossil was found encased in rocks in front of the home of G. F. Smith, who said the waves had laid it bare some time within the last two years. Rev. Anthony Terhaar of Friendly Cove, B.C., assisted Professor Bancroft in recovering the fossil.

Another Modern Step

Tahiti Is Waiting For Opening Of Beauty Parlor

Natives of Papeete, Tahiti, are awaiting civilization's final conquest. In a steady procession have come automobiles, electric lights, filling stations, radios, electric refrigerators, telephones and movies. But it was only recently that ground was broken for a beauty parlor. Already a few girls have crimson finger and toe nails, plucked eyebrows, mascaraed eyelashes and permanent waves, much to the consternation of the native fathers.

Science has been able to create an electric spark during its brief life of one one-hundredth-thousandth of a second, is brighter than the sun.

"We never hear our own voices exactly as other people hear them," states a scientist. Probably that explains why so many of us sing.

Little Helps For This Week

"Therefore to him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, to him it is sin." James 4:17.

Day by day,
Dear Lord of Thee three things
I pray;
To see Thee more clearly,
To love Thee more dearly,
To follow Thee more nearly,
Day by day.

Hurt not thy conscience with any known sin.

Deep-rooted customs, though wrong, are not easily altered, but it is the duty of all to be firm in that which they certainly know is right for them.

If others act unjustly who does not do a certain thing, not only he who does a certain thing.

Every duty we omit obscures some truth we should have known.

Missionaries Use Plane

Only Way To Reach Tribes In New Guinea

The first air-missionaries of the Church of England are starting work in New Guinea.

They are going to tackle one of the most difficult and dangerous jobs imaginable, that of taking the Gospel to 40,000 tribesmen living in virgin and mountainous country to which the air affords the only access and where the natives are very wild.

Six white men, with a staff of native teachers, will undertake the work, which, it is estimated, will cost $25,000 to establish and $10,000 a year to maintain. Their base will be at the Wau Goldfields, now rapidly developing, and all supplies will come up by air from the coast.

Pilot Has Lucky Landing

A monoplane made a forced landing at Coney Island, New York, recently, in so small a space it had to be dismantled for removal. The ship, experiencing motor trouble, circled Manhattan Beach before it slid safely to earth, sitting snugly in a chink in a block of 2,000 parked automobiles.

Survey Made of Chemical Weed Killers

The sixth of a series of studies dealing with weed research and control has been issued by the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association. This pamphlet deals with chemical weed killers, and is the result of research conducted by Dr. G. P. McRostie, professor of Agronomy, University of Manitoba, and Mr. W. T. Tisdale, M.Sc. Assistant on weed research, and financed by line elevator companies.

The pamphlet deals with proper chemicals to use in weed destruction. It outlines methods of mixing to avoid burning body and clothing. Manner of spraying, when to apply, and effect on grain yields are set forth.

Summarizing the results of the survey, the pamphlet states:

1. The use of chemical weed killers is only justified where cultivation cannot be properly done, or where it has proven ineffective.
2. Some annual weeds can be successfully and profitably controlled in growing crops.
3. The profitable use of chemical for the control of perennial weeds is confined almost entirely to the treatment of rather small patches.
4. Fertilizers, properly applied, are a material aid in lessening the weed menace in the cereals and cereal crops.

CHANGES IN GAME REGULATIONS

Important changes in the game regulations of the province, which include reduction of game fees in many instances, have been announced. One of the most important will permit residents of Manitoba, Saskatchewan or British Columbia to hunt game birds in Alberta for a fee of $2, provided they are holders of game bird licenses in their own province. This is a reduction from $10.

Resident outitters' licenses within forest reserves, are reduced from $25 to $15. The resident big game license is cut from $2 to $1, and the resident game bird fee from 2.50 to $2. The resident special elk license is cut from $10 to $5, and there is no longer any special license necessary for bear in the forest reserves, this being absorbed in the general big game license.

There will be an entire closed season on swans, cranes, pheasants, ptarmigan and blue grouse, ruffed grouse, and spruce partridge.

There will be a ten-day open season for prairie chicken from October 1 to 10, in the territory lying south of the North Saskatchewan river, and west of the Calgary-Edmonton line and the Calgary-Macleod line of the C.P.R. and west of the line between ranges 25 and 26 to the international border.

Open season for Hungarian partridge south of the main line of the C.P.R. across the province will be from September 16 to November 30 and in the territory north of the main line of the C.P.R. from October 1 to November 30. There is no change with respect to the duck season.

Bag limit on mountain goat has been increased from one to two. Females and young elk with less than eight points are protected. There is an entire closed season on badger.

The use of rifles in killing waterfowl is prohibited. The migratory birds convention act carries this prohibition, and it is now included in the Alberta game act.

The new provincial game preserves are created as follows:

Didsbury Game Preserve—"All those parcels or tracts of land, situated, lying, or being in Sections 3, 4, 9 and 10 in township 32, range 4, west of the 5th meridian, including drainage of the Little Red Deer river and its tributaries within the above named sections."

Innisfail Game Preserve—"All those parcels or tracts of land situated or being in sections 18 and 19, of township 35, range 1, west of the 5th meridian, and sections 13 and 24, in township 35, range 2, west of the 4th meridian, including the drainage of the Little Red Deer river and its tributaries within the above named sections and including the road allowance being that portion of the township boundary lying between sections 18 and 19, township 35, of range 1, and sections 13 and 24, in township 35, range 2."

Reduction In Grain Storage Rate In Alberta Pool Elevators

ANNOUNCEMENT is made that a storage rate of 1/45 of a cent a bushel per day will apply on grain stored in all Alberta Pool elevators, effective from August 31, 1935, for the ensuing license year. The present rate, which has prevailed for many years, is 1/30 of a cent a bushel a day.

The Alberta Pool elevators is making this voluntary reduction as a temporary measure in reducing cost to grain growers during the present recognized emergency in the marketing of grain.

The proposed reduction will affect 435 Pool elevators in this province as well as four terminals operated by the Alberta Pool on the Pacific coast.
